THE stars come out in Friends and Veronica's Closet (Sky One) on Thursday 9th. Ross (David Schwimmer) is thanking his lucky stars after taking an English rose, Emily (new cast member Helen Baxendale, above), to the opera in Friends. The two hit it off straight away, but will they be making beautiful music together? There have even been rumours of marriage for the pair before the end of the series. Meanwhile, when Hollywood legend Charlton Heston encounters Joey (Matt LeBlanc), he gets to see rather more than he'd like ... because Joey's using Charlton's personal shower on the set of his latest movie. In Veronica's Closet, Ronnie (Kirstie Alley) meets an old friend in more ways than one. Nick is an old acquaintance from high school, and he's also played by Ted Danson, who previously worked with Alley in Cheers. Nick and Ronnie are attracted to each other, but there's one snag: Ronnie's lawyer advises her to remain faithful to her husband, otherwise she risks losing a huge sum of money in her ongoing divorce proceedings. If only it was still Cheers: Kirstie had no trouble resisting Ted's charms then.

COLIN FIRTH is a fine actor with a long list of screen credits that's steadily growing. But for millions he'll always be Mr Darcy, the dashing romantic hero of Pride and Prejudice, who made many a grown woman swoon when he emerged from that lake in clinging shirt and breeches. His attractions were responsible for an outbreak of what soon came to be known as Darcymania. Pride and Prejudice got the highest ever TV ratings for a costume drama when it first screened in 1996 and the video went on to be a best seller. Husbands all over Britain should brace themselves, then, as the series is screened again this month.
UK Gold, from Sunday 12th, 8.05pm

A WEEKLY comedy-drama set in Texas, Austin Stories follows the lives and loves of Laura, an ambitious and witty young journalist working for the local paper; Chip, a pleasant bumbling type who muddles through life; and Howard, a ladies' man who somehow manages to thrive without a job, home or car. The three characters are played by their namesakes: Laura House; Brad 'Chip' Pope; and Howard Kremer.

PYTHON fans can start preparing for the full Monty, because Michael Palin is hosting a special weekend, with Spam, dead parrots and silly walks certain to loom large. Actually, one of the few people in the land left unamused by John Cleese as the man from the Ministry of Silly Walks is Cleese himself. 'I never liked it very much,' he reveals. 'We went on tour and I did it in Southampton to almost complete silence. Afterwards I said to the other Pythons, "You see!" They said, "If it doesn't work tomorrow night, then we'll drop it." But it did work. That's comedy, you see.' As well as sketches from Monty Python's Flying Circus, the weekend will include the films Monty Python and the Holy Grail and The Meaning of Life, as well as Eric Idle's brilliant 1978 Beatles spoof, The Rutles.

AT 3.00pm every day during Spice Week, there will be reports on Scary, Ginger, Sporty, Posh and Baby, who are collectively known as Las Picantes in Spain. That's the kind of fascinating trivia you can expect during Spice Week, plus interviews, outtakes, concert performances and all the Spice Girls' videos, as well as their first audition tapes and clips from Spiceworld – the Movie. Incidentally, it is not surprising that Baby Spice, aka Emma Bunton, is not exactly Dame Maggie Smith material in Spiceworld, for at the Sylvia Young theatre school she used to get her best friend, Keeley Hawes, to do her drama coursework while she concentrated on singing and dancing. Bunton and Hawes – an actress who is herself a rising star and appears with Sean Connery, Ralph Fiennes and Uma Thurman in the forthcoming film The Avengers – were once inseparable. 'But it's like being friends with a Beatle,' laments Hawes. 'She's moved to France to be a tax exile, and I only saw her three or four times last year. It's quite sad, really.'
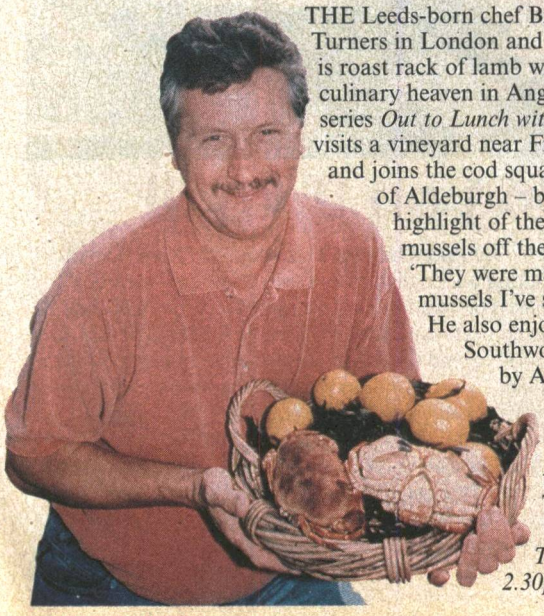
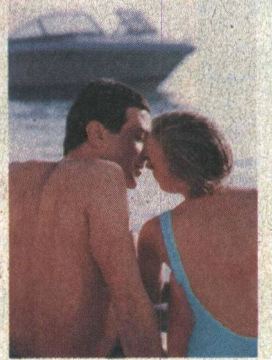
MTV, from Monday 6th, 3.00pm



THE Leeds-born chef Brian Turner, who runs Turners in London and whose signature dish is roast rack of lamb with a herb crust, finds culinary heaven in Anglia in the ten-part series Out to Lunch with Brian Turner. He visits a vineyard near Framlingham, Suffolk, and joins the cod squad – the fishermen of Aldeburgh – but insists that the highlight of the series was raking up mussels off the North Norfolk coast. 'They were marvellous, the best mussels I've seen for years,' he says. He also enjoyed visiting pigs near Southwold: 'They are owned by Adnams brewery and are fed the crust from the fermenting of hops. In the afternoon they go to sleep. They are extremely well-oiled by then.'
Travel, from Friday 3rd, 2.30pm, 10.00pm



THE race to make the first film based on the final months of Diana, Princess of Wales, is over. Amy Clare Seccombe, a 27-year-old actress, plays the title role in a $3m production, The People's Princess – a Tribute, with George Jackos as the late Dodi Fayed. 'I'm not about to start a career as a Diana lookalike,' says Seccombe of her television debut. 'I'm an actress, and this is a fantastic role.' Jackos, by contrast, has appeared in Heartbeat, Soldier, Soldier and The Thieftakers. The two-hour film, which was shot this February in Mallorca, follows Diana's personal life after the breakdown of her marriage, her campaign against landmines, and the budding romance with Dodi. It ends on an ominous note, as the Mercedes enters the Paris underpass.

Of all his cartoons, the 41-year-old New Yorker swears that* Cow and Chicken is his all-time favourite. 'I love that show,' he says, adding that he has visions of himself at a Beverly Hills bus stop in 50 years' time, telling passers-by that he used to be a cow back in 1998: 'I'll be saying, "I am big, it's the cartoons that got small."'

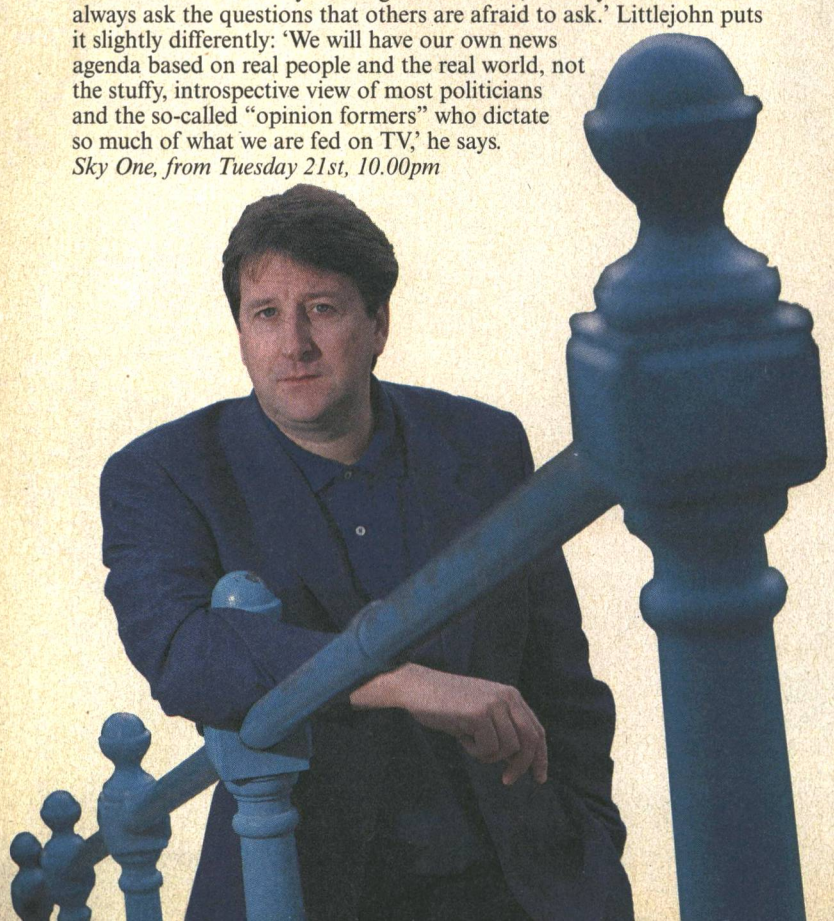
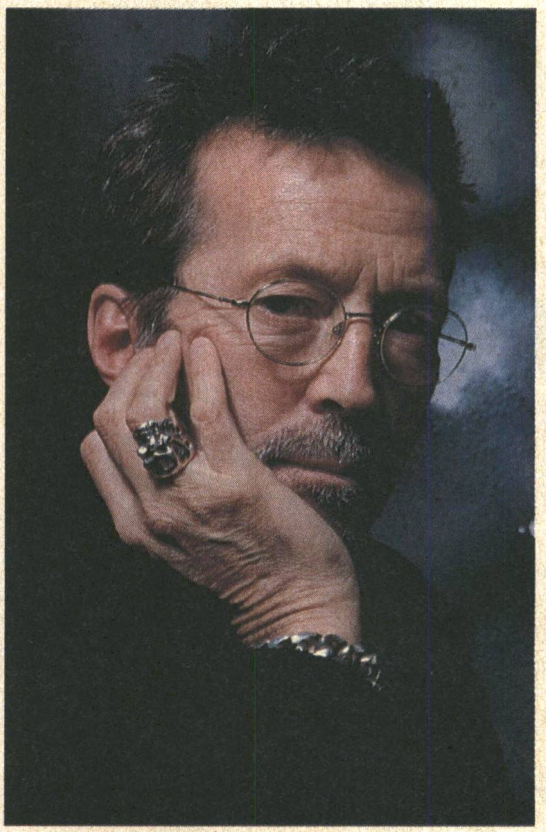
IF a dozen Coronation Street addicts were invited to draw up a list of the super soap's six finest half-hours, it's a fair bet that the epic Ken Barlow-Mike Baldwin showdowns would make at least one of those episodes. Fortunately, Granada executives have agreed, for a Coronation Street theme day – The Rovers Returned – includes the 1990 episode in which Ken accuses Mike of dishonest car dealings.
Granada Plus, Saturday 11th, from 3.00pm

THE broadcasting career of controversial newspaper columnist Richard Littlejohn continues apace. Littlejohn, who recently re-joined The Sun after three outspoken years on the Daily Mail, is to present a new weekly talk show on Sky One, Littlejohn: Live and Unleashed, while continuing to present BBC Radio 5 Live's Wednesday night football phone-in. Sky's general manager of broadcasting, Elisabeth Murdoch, is gung-ho about the show. 'There's really nothing like it on TV,' she says. 'Richard will always ask the questions that others are afraid to ask.' Littlejohn puts it slightly differently: 'We will have our own news agenda based on real people and the real world, not the stuffy, introspective view of most politicians and the so-called "opinion formers" who dictate so much of what we are fed on TV,' he says.
Sky One, from Tuesday 21st, 10.00pm





GUITAR legend Eric Clapton rarely gives interviews, but he changed the habit of a lifetime after seeing comedian Bob Mills conduct an interview on VH1, asking his manager, Roger Forrester, to set things up. Mills and Clapton hit it off, and remain good friends. Indeed, Mills even persuaded the great man to give him a further interview on his programme for London radio station GLR. In their free-ranging televised conversation, lasting an hour and a half, Clapton talks candidly about his addiction to drink and drugs, about the tragic death of his young son, Conor, and about his own unusual childhood – he was brought up thinking his grandparents were actually his parents. Self-deprecatingly, he also recalls the occasion when he tried to book the Royal Albert Hall for a solo concert, only to be told that the venue was already booked. 'But I'm Eric Clapton, I always play the Albert Hall,' he protested. 'You still should have phoned earlier,' came the reply.

Soaring to success: Kurt as Snake Plisskin in the futuristic sci-fi movie

PHOTOS: MOVIESTORE, VISAGES/COLORIFIC

AT one point, Kurt Russell was in danger of being Hollywood's nearly man. He'd been on screen from the age of nine, since his father Bing Russell, Deputy Clem in the television series Bonanza, opened doors for him. But a few years ago he seemed to be known more as Goldie Hawn's lover than for anything else.

That's all changed. Where Russell once enjoyed the occasional hit, such as Overboard and Tango & Cash, he's now putting together a whole string of them: Backdraft, Unlawful Entry, Stargate and Executive Decision. He even beat Oscar-winner Kevin Costner to the draw with his highly successful portrayal of Wyatt Earp in Tombstone, which left Costner's lavish alternative, Wyatt Earp, dead at the cinema.

Escape from LA is typical of Russell's revival. The film is the 1996 successor to Escape from New York, made in 1981, with Russell in the lead role as bounty hunter Snake Plisskin. The futuristic $50m Escape from LA, directed by John Carpenter, did not receive the best of reviews. But given Kurt's current impact, it still did well at the box office.

I met Russell in the Ritz hotel in Paris to discuss his new film, Breakdown, released nationally next month, and his resurrection of the Snake Plisskin character in Escape from LA. The latter, he reveals, led to an exchange of words between himself and Goldie. 'She said she thought it was a well-made, interesting movie – but that she just didn't get it,' he says. 'And she found it scary when people laughed at Snake. But that's the point. It's a scared laugh. My character can take you in directions that other people can't take you. But I couldn't convince Goldie. "Well, he's sexy," she said, "but still scary and I don't like that."'

Russell gives a helpless shrug: 'To be honest, the movies I do, for the most part, aren't movies that Goldie understands or cares to understand and take part in. She isn't uninterested, but she isn't particularly connected to the work I do.'

I ask him if these differences put a strain on the relationship, which reached its 15th anniversary on Valentine's Day, making Kurt and Goldie the most enduring unmarried couple in Hollywood.

'We do have our moments of total disagreement,' he says. 'At times, differences seem unsurpassable. But, if you're asking why we're still together, I have to say it's because we love each other. I just don't think there is any logic to it.'

It's impossible not to like Russell. He wears an open-neck shirt, jeans and cowboy boots and seems as honest-to-goodness straight as his appearance suggests – which is surprisingly against the odds considering his record. At 47 he's had a screen career spanning 37 years, and was plunged into the company of actors, agents, producers and a plague of hangers-on from an early age. While some actors with similar backgrounds can't take two paces without tripping over their ego, Russell has remained remarkably unaffected. A report from international film executives confirms this. Their verdict? 'He doesn't bring any ego to the film set, is amused by his success and is a devoted family man. A real pro.'

'Being an actor for so long has given me a great sense of the good life,' Russell says. 'But it's important not to abuse it. I've seen careers and lives disappear because people can't get a grip on reality. I get a buzz out of acting, but I don't take things too seriously and try to maintain a balanced life.'

It's an attitude that may well have kept him in the industry for so many years. And while he's never scaled the heights of success enjoyed by other forty-something stars such as Mel Gibson, John Travolta or Bruce Willis, he's been consistently good at what he does and seems to be improving with each movie.

Incidentally, his new film, Breakdown, is as tense an action thriller as you could witness this year. There are no wild special effects – just a chillingly realistic story of a kidnap amid the open deserts of America's south west, surrounded by characters who look as if they've stepped straight from the set of Deliverance. Russell is brilliant as the ordinary guy who has to try and fight himself out of the nightmare.

'Goldie loved it,' he says, with a relieved smile. 'She says it's one of the best things I've done. And that, coming from her, is praise indeed.'

Fantastic Voyager

'If I got goose bumps it showed' – Jeri Ryan on her silver suit

THE adventures of Star Trek's Starship Voyager have received a boost at the start of the fourth season of the top-rated show. Joining the crew as Seven of Nine comes blonde bombshell Jeri Ryan, co-star of last year's Dark Skies.

The five-foot eight, blue-eyed former Miss Illinois had featured in assorted TV roles before joining Dark Skies in late 1996 as mysterious Russian agent Juliet, lover of hero John Loengard (Eric Close). The short-lived science-fiction show was cancelled by the American network NBC the following Spring, and Jeri counts herself very lucky that, within a month, she was auditioning for Voyager as one of the Borg Collective.

This half-human, half-robotic race, who regularly threatened to 'assimilate' Patrick Stewart and the Starship Enterprise in Star Trek: The Next Generation, and on the big screen in Star Trek: First Contact, are not as all-powerful as they thought they were. Captain Janeway (Kate Mulgrew) discovered that at the end of the last season. Facing defeat by Species 8472, the Borg reluctantly allied themselves with the Voyager crew and sent Seven of Nine as liaison.

'Seven of Nine is something of a wild child – she was assimilated by the Borg as a young girl,' explains Voyager's guiding force, co-creator and executive producer Rick Berman. 'But once Captain Janeway severs her connection to the Collective, she is forced to stay on Voyager and adapt to human society.'

Although Seven of Nine is in the full Borg make-up for her first appearance, the ship's doctor soon creates a suit that allows her to get rid of all the prosthetics hiding her features.

For the first few episodes, Ryan wears a figure-hugging silver catsuit in which, she laughs, 'If I got goose bumps, it showed. It was a big incentive not to eat things like cheesecake.'

She adds: 'I've been lucky. I've had two series roles and both have been good characters – tough, smart cookies.'

Thirty-year-old Ryan, who is married to an investment banker and has a three-year-old son, Alex, is thoroughly enjoying her first year on Star Trek. 'We have a great time on the set – they're all certifiable characters,' she says. And although the crew of the Voyager initially don't trust their one-time enemy, Seven of Nine – like the actress who plays her – fast becomes a valued member of the company.

After a slow take off, 'Star Trek: Voyager' is hitting warp speed. Patrick Holm meets Kate Mulgrew and Jeri Ryan, two women ensuring that 'Voyager' won't be lost in space

'Finally, we have a worthy adversary – that's very important'

NO, it's not been boring this season,' laughs Kate Mulgrew, alias Captain Kathryn Janeway of the Starship Voyager, about the new series she has just finished filming. Star Trek: Voyager, which is currently in its fourth year, follows the adventures of a Starship vessel which was thrown 70,000 light years from the Federation while in pursuit of a renegade ship. The two crews allied themselves against a common enemy, and are now slowly heading across the 'Delta Quadrant' back to known space. The fourth live-action Star Trek series has had mixed reviews during its first three years on screen – its detractors point to dreadful lines of dialogue such as 'Get that cheese to sickbay!' However, the introduction of Seven of Nine (played by Jeri Ryan) and a new enemy, in the form of the Hirogen – a race of hunters who treat the crew as slightly cleverer than normal prey – have led to a much higher profile for the series, and higher ratings.

Kate Mulgrew, who has been made mayor of her local town in recognition of her work on the series, adds that Star Trek: Voyager has settled down and found its feet. 'The writing has improved this season,' she says. 'A lot of the dynamics have shifted and finally we have a worthy adversary – and that's very important.'

Mulgrew also praises her fellow actors, showing that she is not just captain in the fictional universe. 'I always get a bit concerned when my senior staff don't get the screen time they deserve,' she maintains. 'This is a great company.'

She believes the promotion of Brannon Braga, who co-wrote Star Trek: First Contact, to executive producer leads to a darker, grittier series. With Borg, Hirogen and messages from Earth all on the way, the crew of the Voyager will be around for a long time to come.

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs
Easter Sunday 6.00pm

Like the seven dwarfs, Disney's 750 animators must have kept in high spirits to produce an astonishing two million drawings for the studio's first animated movie. Words: PAULINE McLEOD

BY rights, she should have been pensioned off in a box and left in the archives, all dusty and curled around the edges, turning sepia with age. But no, she's back, cleaned up, cobwebs blown away – the old lady of never-never Toon land, fresh as a daisy more than 60 years after she first skipped on to the drawing board as a pristine young girl at Disney.

Snow White, the fairest one of all. The film was three years on the drawing boards and threatened to bankrupt the studio when production costs spiralled from an initial $150,000 to an astronomical $1.5million. But fairy tales do come true and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs has lived happily ever after. It was the first of what is now a steady stream of family magic – last year's Hercules was Disney's 35th full-length animated feature.

But it's a curious thing – as we move at a high-tech pace towards the Millennium, with all the technological wizardry the late 20th century has developed, the basic nuts and bolts of animation has hardly changed since the early Thirties.

Top Disney artist Andreas Deja was the lead animator of Scar in The Lion King, and is currently creating Yzma (with the voice of Eartha Kitt), the villainess in Kingdom of the Sun, which is due for release in the year 2000. 'People automatically assume that we work with computers, but in that respect it's not really changed since the early days,' he explains. 'A pencil and pencil sharpener are my basic tools. There's no button you can press to get somebody's feelings illustrated on paper.'

'Although,' interjects colleague Mike Surrey, 'technology has given back some of the things that became too expensive to do by hand. If you look at Sleeping Beauty, you'll see she has 20 or 30 different coloured ink lines on her body, as well as being painted, but that became so expensive and labour intensive that it all went away.

'And technology does help you to do things you couldn't do with old-fashioned techniques. No way could we have done the stampede of the wildebeest in The Lion King without it. It would have taken ten or 20 years.'

Still, it took all Mike's artistic skills to turn Terk, the gorilla in Tarzan (presently revving into full production gear for a 1999 release) from a he into a she with Rosie O'Donnell as Terk's voice. The film also stars the British vocal talent of Nigel Hawthorne, Minnie Driver and Brian Blessed.

'Brian plays the villain, Clayton,' he says. 'When he auditioned he was quite incredible. He'd been told that Clayton was crazy and manic, so he took Get animated!

One of Disney's greatest strengths is its adherence to the old style of producing animation. So, the technique used to create Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs is basically the same as that used for Hercules. The major difference nowadays is the use of computers to perform labour-intensive tasks. In the pictures of Dopey (above), you can see the basic stages involved. The first step is for an animator to produce a storyboard sketch (1). Next, an animation drawing is made (2). This is the original artwork from which the character is created. This drawing of Dopey is a clean-up drawing – a sharp single line which is used to make the finished coloured cel (3). This cel is then photographed over a background to produce the final image.

it upon himself to ad-lib a little and ended up jumping on the table and screaming at the directors.'

As in the early days of studio animation, a full-length feature film can be in production for up to four years.

Andreas explains: 'It starts off with a small group of scriptwriters, then the directors, followed by the artists, come on board. The whole team is 600 or 700 strong.

'On The Lion King, there were 40 animators. Each of us had a supervising animator and then each one of these animators has his assistants and clean-up artists. In the end, I must have had about 30 people drawing Scar.'

This year's biggie from Disney is Mulan, based on Chinese folklore, with Eddie Murphy as the star voice talent.

So what about the year 2001 and beyond? Aaaah! That's a secret, say Disney – at least until the characters have been fully developed and securely copyrighted!

Snow White v Hercules – a comparison

Once upon a time, there was a film called Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. But how have things changed in those intervening years? We contrast the differences between Disney's first film and its most recent, Hercules ...

The Hydra scene from 'Hercules'

- Work on Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs started on 9 August, 1934. The film was premiered on 21 December, 1937 – three years, four months and 12 days later.
- Directors John Musker and Ron Clements began work on Hercules in Autumn 1993, three-and-a-half years before the film was released.
- It took 750 artists to produce the two million drawings needed for Snow White.
- For Hercules, 906 animators, artists and technicians were used.
- The rouge on Snow White's face had to be dabbed onto each individual frame.
- Computer graphics imagery (CGI) was used to create the Hydra, a 30-headed mythical beast, in Hercules. Choreographing the movement of the heads took two years for a team of 15 artists.
- Walt Disney wanted the Snow White characters to replicate human movements, so he shot film of people acting out scenes from the movie for his artists to copy.
- The directors of Hercules took a group of animation supervisors on a tour of Greece and Turkey to see the ancient sites and scenery, and hear expert accounts of classic Greek mythology.
- The character of Snow White was meant to resemble a 14-year-old Janet Gaynor (a popular American actress of the time), while the Prince was modelled on an 18-year-old Douglas Fairbanks.
- In Hercules, the character of Hades was drawn to look like the actor providing the voice, James Woods, even incorporating his trademark Havana cigar.
- The voice of Snow White was provided by an 18-year-old trainee opera singer, Adriana Caselotti, who earned $20 a day.
- The chief cast of Hercules were all well established actors – from Tate Donovan as Hercules to Charlton Heston as the Narrator.
- Snow White made $8million on its initial release in 1938 (and has subsequently been re-released seven times).
- Hercules has taken more than $250million so far.

Fighting talk

She may seem an unlikely action hero, but Meg Ryan isn't faking anything when she plays a Gulf War pilot in Courage under Fire. Garth Pearce hears why she was out for tough justice

Courage under Fire

Ready for action: Meg Ryan changes direction – and hair colour – when she trades in her image as a 'fluffy-headed little blonde' for that of a Gulf War pilot in 'Courage under Fire'

MEG RYAN is buzzing with energy. Her blue eyes are alight, the blonde hair bounces like a beacon on top of a black, high-collared suit and she smiles a perfect white smile. Those looks, refreshing and remarkably innocent even at 36, have helped propel her to stardom in romantic films. But is there more to Meg Ryan than meets the eye?

It seems so. On the day we met, she was eager to show her muscles. Meg's tiny frame had suffered months of work-outs, weight training and exercise routines to get into shape for playing a Gulf War pilot in the film Courage under Fire. The change of image had a devastating effect – as actor husband Dennis Quaid learned: 'I can disarm and bully him if I want,' she says. 'He has never been so frightened of me in his life.

'We tried arm wrestling, too, and I beat him every time. He kept on shaking his head and saying, "I don't believe it." But then Dennis has always realised that there was more to me than the image of this fluffy-headed little blonde. I wanted to do this film to show another side to my character.'

It is a case of mission accomplished. The actress who has been known as America's romantic sweetheart, with films like Sleepless in Seattle and French Kiss, even changed her hair colour to a more aggressive brown for this new role. She also spent a self-enforced two-year holiday getting fitter than ever.

Most of the time had been spent on the family ranch in Montana, with Dennis and son Jack, now aged six. Although Dennis did one film, Dragonheart, they enjoyed more time together than at any point since their marriage on 14 February, 1991.

'It was long overdue,' says Meg. 'I had been working non-stop for years and was just wiped out. It was a case of either having a long rest or having all the stress get to me. I just slept for the first few weeks. I took a good look at myself and our situation, stepped back and started saying no to things. Suddenly, I had new energy.'

But Courage under Fire director Ed Zwick was far from convinced. 'I had to think long and hard about casting Meg for the part,' he told me. 'Would audiences accept her as this cursing, all-action woman, prepared to die in the heat of battle? In the end, I cast her against my better judgment. But any doubts I had were removed in training because she left everyone else standing.

'I also asked, "Have you had any experience of real pain? You know, like a broken arm or broken leg?" And she replied, "I gave birth to a 10lb baby boy." That was enough for me.'

It becomes clear that Meg has a tough inner core. She is revealing about her attitude to life as she discusses the one moment which would have frozen many a person in fear: 'I was mugged once in New York by a guy with a knife. I thought, "If he doesn't kill me, he will rape me and I will be in therapy for the rest of my life."

'So I just ducked my head and smashed it into his stomach and fought back. I took him on because I was just furious that someone could think he could be in charge of me that way. I could not believe I felt such anger. He looked stunned to be attacked and turned and ran. I could hardly believe it of myself.

'After that happened – and this was before I married Dennis – I felt that I could take on other situations and win. Or even if I didn't win, then I would fight. It gave me confidence, in the strangest way. I knew I was going to react when threatened in the future.'

Such experiences and determination to get results makes Meg Ryan the surprise package in Courage under Fire.

Stevo's Super League Tips

Mike Stephenson and Eddie Hemmings are back with all the action in the 1998 Super League. ROSS BIDDISCOMBE asked Stevo for his season's predictions

THE European Super League kicks off its third season this month with the added feature of end-of-season play-offs plus a Grand Final to decide the champions. Bradford Bulls were best last season by a long way and Mike 'Stevo' Stephenson, who, along with Eddie Hemmings, will be back in the central commentary position for Sky Sports, believes the men from Odsal will again be in at the death.

'The Bulls were worthy champions last year and even though the club hasn't splashed out on really big-name signings, they're still going to be very tough to beat,' he says. The canny Bulls have signed veteran Shaun Edwards to pull the strings in attack and he will bring out the best in last year's winner of the Man of Steel accolade, James Lowes.

At Wigan, John Monie is back as coach with a clear brief – give us back our trophies! Monie guided Wigan to 14 trophies between 1989 and 1993 and his return has helped install the team as the bookies' pre-season favourites. He'll bring his own brand of discipline back to help the magical skills of men like Andy Farrell, Jason Robinson and Gary Connolly.

Arch rivals St Helens may have won the Challenge Cup last year, but their Super League season was a disappointment, while in London, the Broncos may have lost Shaun Edwards, but they've gained exciting New Zealand three-quarter John Timu.

If these four clubs are favourites to reach the five-team play-offs, then Stevo believes that Leeds, Sheffield or Warrington are most likely to fill the last spot. The Sheffield Eagles are blending the new faster style of play with traditional English power, while Warrington's close-season emphasis on more powerful forwards should reap rewards. Leeds will have to bed in a reliable half-back combination if they are to fulfil their promise.

And, if you want a real dark-horse team, Stevo says it could be Castleford. 'They've already shown good form in the Challenge Cup and have a real raw talent in a new forward from New Zealand called Mike Smith,' he says.

The five-team play-offs system has been adopted from the Australian format, where it proved a huge success. It means extra action for the fans and delays the crowning of the new Super League champions until the Grand Final, rather than having the title won weeks in advance, as happened last year with Bradford.

'The scramble for play-off places will bring a new dimension to the Super League this year. On the last weekend of the season, there could be as many as four or five teams vying for a spot and all of them will have a chance to win the Grand Final,' says Stevo.

It all adds up to a new season of progress for rugby league, which prompts another prediction from Stevo: 'European rugby league got a real kick up the backside last year when the southern hemisphere dominated the World Club Championship. Now everyone understands what it takes to improve and that will mean one key difference – even more exciting rugby league.'

Discovery Channel

Eco-Challenge
From Sunday 19th 8.00pm

TROPICAL Northern Queensland they call it, and it's home to some pretty wild terrain. Outback, bush, mountains, dense rain-forest – and a big thing out to sea known as the Great Barrier Reef. A beautiful place to visit, but a nuisance when you have to make a 330-mile journey through the place on foot, mountain bike, horseback and canoe, scaling waterfalls in the dark and careering through some of the most notorious whitewater rapids known to man. It's a ten-day trip from hell, where sleep is something caught on the hoof and dinner is the same as lunch: a few oats and a power bar.

It's not as if the terrain was all the competitors had to worry about in the 1997 Discovery Channel Eco-Challenge, which billed itself as the toughest adventure race in the world. Saltwater crocodiles, seven of the ten most deadly snakes in the world, paralysis ticks and bloodsucking leeches all lay in wait for the 192 die-hards competing in the race. I was terrified just covering the affair, and I got to stay in the Cairns Hilton most nights.

As if the external dangers weren't enough to contend with, the athletes had to face internal dilemmas to boot. Grouped in teams of four – three men and a woman – it soon became apparent if someone wasn't pulling their weight. When teamwork starts going to pieces in the middle of the night halfway up a mountain, you're unlikely to come out alive, let alone in the lead of a race.

It was on the rainforest-covered mountain leg that Japanese team East Wind displayed the sort of heroics that made you wonder if they were made of the same stuff as the rest of us. Their woman – four-foot-something Nohoko Hayama – had torn an ankle ligament on the mountain-biking section and couldn't hobble, let alone walk, with the biggest mountain in the state standing between her and the final section of the race. It was a trek that I later attempted – all pulling yourself up by jungle vine and leaping from boulder to boulder. Not for the faint-hearted and definitely not for the mashed-up-ankled. No matter for the Japanese. The captain, Masato Tanaka, handed his 50lb rucksack to a team-member, put the girl on his shoulder, and set off up the mountain. Some 16 hours later they reached the other side.

The Japanese team also managed to tot up the most alarming near-death incident of the trip. A couple of days earlier, one of their team had been climbing up the sheer face of the spectacular Herbert Falls in the middle of the night and got stuck. Hallucinating through lack of sleep and over-exhaustion, he'd started slashing at his rope to free himself. Or what he thought was his rope. He was in fact hacking at the safety line. If a rigger hadn't climbed up to stop him, this story would have read rather differently.

I won't reveal the identity of the race winners, but I will reveal the fact that they said team togetherness had got them through rather than super-athleticism. Watching these adventure racers go through hell at first hand was a life-enhancing experience because it made me realise how much the human body and mind is capable of going through in the name of sport. Watching the whole thing on TV is likely to give you a similar sensation, without the leeches. Boy, those things suck.

Win a trip to the 1998 Eco-Challenge!

Or if you just fancy a week in Morocco, Cable Guide and Discovery are offering readers the chance to win a fabulous week's holiday for two in Marrakech, plus ten runners-up prizes of survival kits, T-shirts and baseball caps. Jerry Springer admits he wouldn't watch his own show, but that hasn't stopped millions in America and Britain from tuning in. Brian Viner meets the man responsible for TV's most sensational talk show. Photograph by Mark Harrison

Mr Outrageous

EVEN compared to some of his guests – such as the pair of transsexuals and their slave, or the chap who cut off his manhood – Jerry Springer has led an interesting life.

The host of America's most talked-about talk show was born in London in 1944 to a Jewish couple who had managed to flee Germany two weeks before the Nazis invaded Poland.

In 1949, the family emigrated again, this time settling in New York. From this point, the story of the Springers follows the script of the American Dream. Father toiled, selling stuffed animals from roadside stalls to raise the money to put Jerry and his sister through college. Jerry was bright and, after finishing law school, joined the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign. 'I so admired Bobby Kennedy,' he says, sitting in his swanky London hotel suite, wreathed in cigar smoke. 'He was in politics for the purest reasons.' The conversation seems a long way from transsexuals.

'My mother would have been embarrassed by my show, while my father would have snuck into the back room to watch it'

After Kennedy's assassination, Jerry worked for a law firm for a while, then went into politics himself. Despite, or maybe because of, his public admission that he'd had a liaison with a prostitute – he's still not sure which – he was elected Mayor of Cincinnati and later ran, unsuccessfully, for the governorship of Ohio. Did he ever have serious political ambitions? 'I knew I couldn't be president, because I was born in England,' he says. 'Actually, I was happy to leave England once I knew I couldn't be king.' Still the conversation is a long way from transsexuals, but we're getting there.

In 1980, a local TV station, eager to capitalise on Jerry's fame and political nous, made him a news presenter. After ten years in the job he was re-assigned to a talk show. The Jerry Springer Show started in 1991 and has been climbing in the US ratings ever since.

It seems that America and Britain can't get enough of programmes with titles such as 'Honey, I'm Really a Guy', or 'My Sister Slept with My Three Husbands', and viewers relish the prospect of a punch-up between the guests. Yet Jerry is mild-mannered, intelligent and liberal, characteristics quite different from many of his guests.

'It's true that I wouldn't watch the show myself,' he says. 'But I make no apologies for it. It's outrageous, it's silly, but it's purely voluntary and we never ever talk about someone who isn't there.' Does he feel intellectually or socially superior to his guests? 'Never. Those people might not speak the Queen's English, but they have no airs. I am more comfortable with them than the so-called elite.'

All the same, would his late parents, who worked so hard for his education, approve of his line of work? He smiles. It's obviously a question he's considered before. 'My mother would have been embarrassed by my show, while my father would have snuck into the back room to watch it. But I think they would both have been proud of me. I have done serious and worthwhile jobs. This is a silly one. But I don't have trouble sleeping at night, as I did when I was doing news. I think news can hurt people, this doesn't.'

His ambition, he adds, is to retire from the public eye and teach political science. But he's just signed a contract to stick with the Jerry Springer Show for five more years, and it can't be entirely because of the money, reputed to be $1million a year. 'I already have more money than I'll ever need,' he says. 'I do it because it's fun.' And which shows are the most fun? 'I do enjoy the trans-gender ones,' he says, with one final puff on his cigar.

SCREEN TRENDS

Make mine a double! IVAN WATERMAN scans the movies for split personalities and gives you two (or more) for the price of one in April …

MULTIPLICITY

An absolute must for Michael Keaton fans. Harold 'Groundhog Day' Ramis gives Keaton the old quadruple echo treatment, delivering no fewer than four versions of the former Batman star. He plays a stressed businessman who feels the need to deliver on the fronts of being top hubby, dearest daddy and ace businessman. Enter Dr Owen Leeds (Harris Yulin) as a genetics wizard, who duplicates his buddy with disastrous effects. Andie MacDowell, as always, is gorgeous as Keaton's baffled missus.
SKY MOVIES SCREEN 1 FRIDAY 3RD

THE NUTTY PROFESSOR

Just when they were saying Eddie Murphy was past his best, he came bouncing back with this. And bounce is exactly what he does as gargantuan boffin Sherman Klump, who sheds 20 stone in seconds to resurface as streetwise, womanising, devious Buddy Love every time he swallows … the formula. Murphy is at his effervescent best, playing no fewer than five characters in one family dinner sequence. Tom Shadyac directs this remake of the old Jerry Lewis slapstick pic with gleeful style.

VICE VERSA

Those likely lads Dick Clement and Ian La Frenais wrote this mind-switching tale about an ancient skull reversing the natural order of things between a workaholic and his 11-year-old son with predictable and, occasionally, very funny results. Perennial charmer Judge Reinhold plays the adult who realises he hasn't got his priorities right until he gets 'stuck' in his lad's body. Fred Savage is his precocious son. As the admen might say, 'a boy in a man's body … and loving every second of it!'

NORTH BY NORTHWEST

Cary Grant only appears here once, as advertising executive Roger Thornhill, but that doesn't stop a group of spies from thinking that he's double agent George Kaplan, and the police believing that he's an on-the-run assassin. Alfred Hitchcock's 1959 thriller is full of fantastic moments and contains some of his most famous scenes, such as the homicidal crop sprayer and the finale on top of Mount Rushmore. Eva Marie Saint adds a touch of glamour to proceedings as the obligatory blonde heroine.
TNT SUNDAY 26TH

BIG

Based on the simple premise 'I want to be a grown-up …', director Penny Marshall and Tom Hanks took us on an often hysterical rollercoaster ride back in 1988. A 12-year-old boy goes to a carnival, puts some money in a fortune-telling machine and makes a wish. The following day, he looks suspiciously like a fully grown Tom Hanks. It's time to start coping with adulthood and stuff like jobs, a pad and … SEX. Elizabeth Perkins is cute as the girl dealing with a child-like fella. Hanks, in one of his silliest moods, won awards. You'll fall off the sofa giggling.

WIN THE FULL MONTY!

The Full Monty, the most successful British film ever released in this country, is now out on video and we've got ten copies of the smash hit comedy to give away. The story of six hapless men who turn their lives around by becoming strippers has become an instant classic and delighted audiences the world over with its wit, charm and raunchy dance routines!

Set in Sheffield – a city where the steel mills have all closed, placing their workers on the scrapheap – the film stars Robert Carlyle (star of Hamish Macbeth and Trainspotting) as Gaz, struggling to find both work and the money he desperately needs to pay for his young son's child maintenance. Spying the wild reaction that The Chippendales get at a local club full of women, Gaz convinces his best mate, Dave (Mark Addy), that there's easy money to be made from stripping, so the duo start a recruitment campaign.

Soon, four other men with varying degrees of sex appeal have been assembled, each with a unique asset: Lomper provides the rehearsal space; Gerald teaches them all how to dance; Horse actually can dance; and Guy ... well, let's just say he's quite a guy. Unfortunately, they've got no rhythm, no style and they can't even strip in front of each other. And then, in an act of naked ambition, Gaz goes and tells everyone that, unlike other male strip troupes, they go all the way, showing 'the full monty' ...

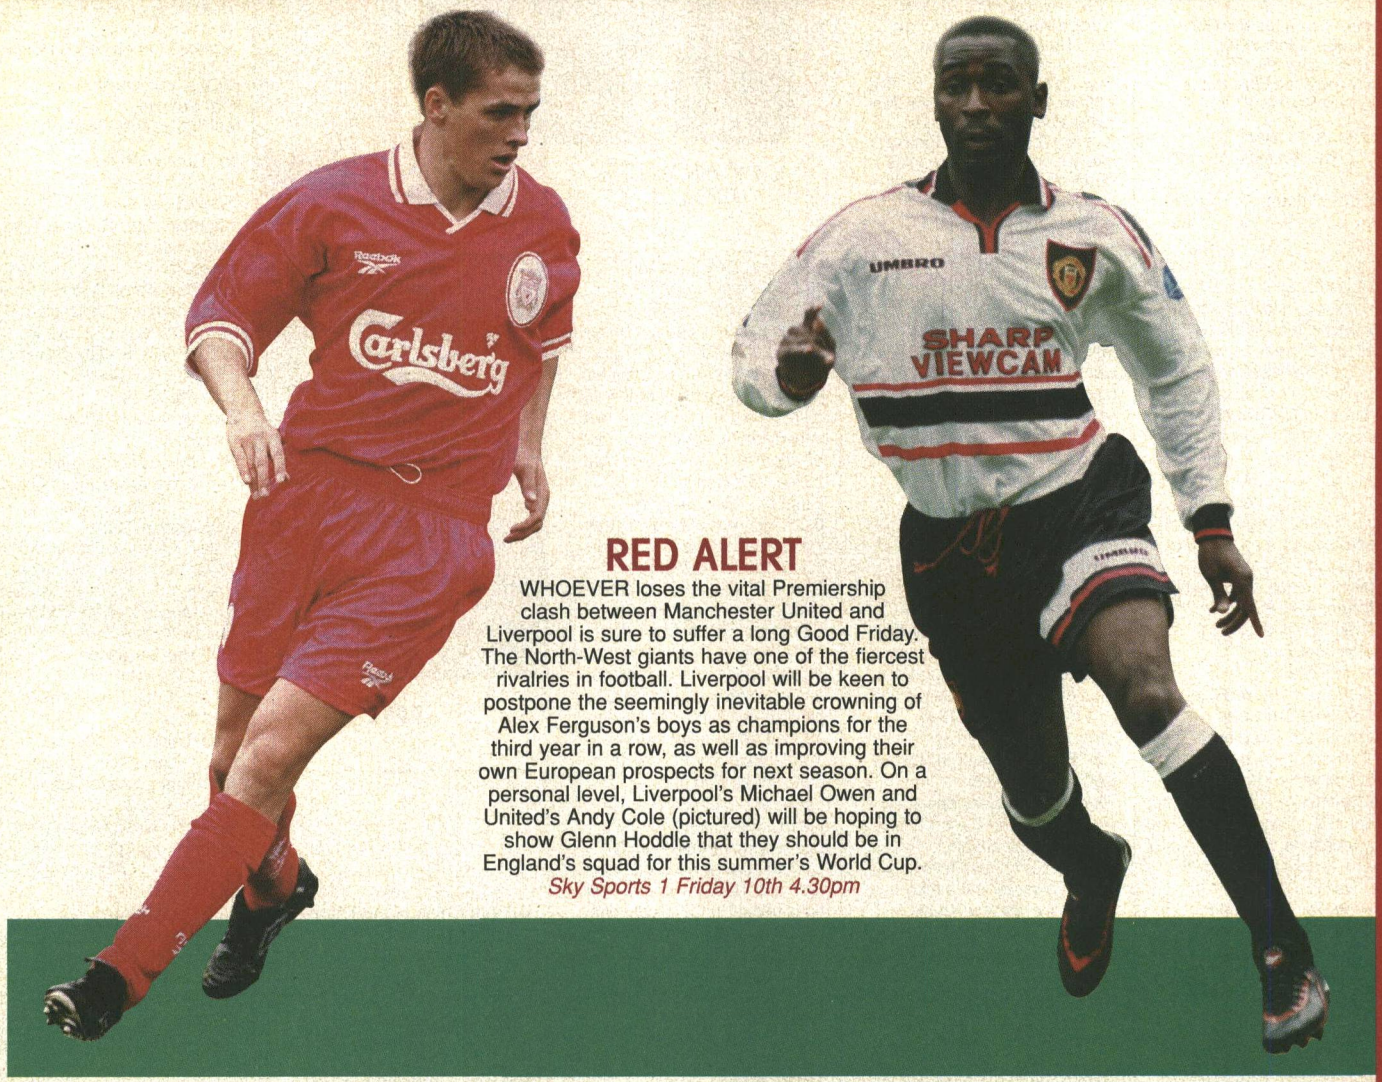
SECTION ONE

Wednesday April 1 – Friday April 10

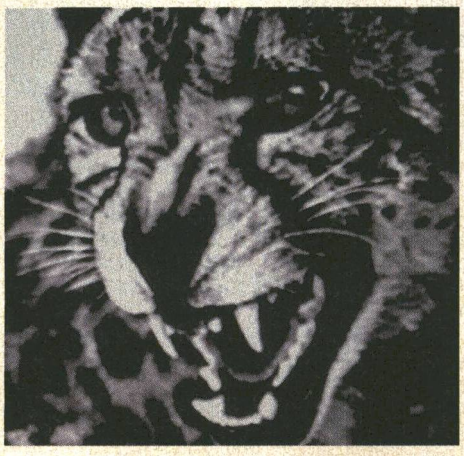


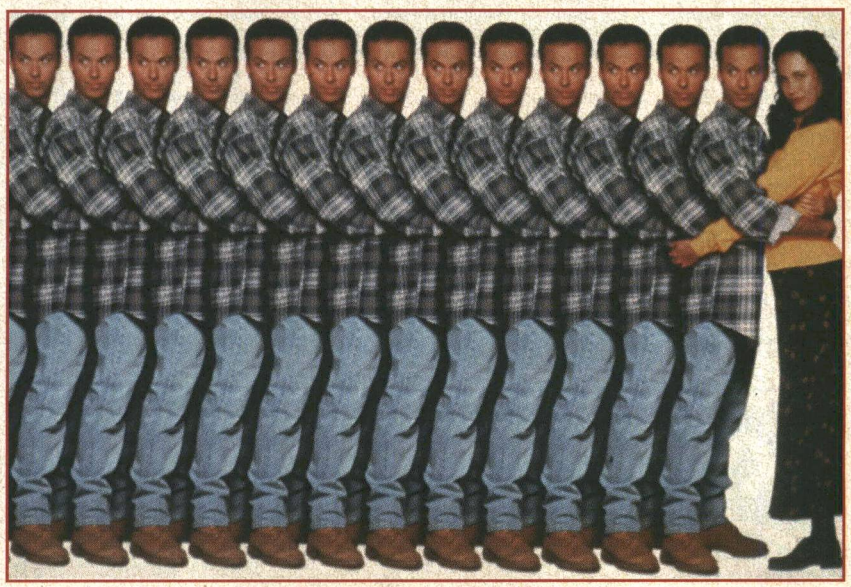
RED ALERT

WHOEVER loses the vital Premiership clash between Manchester United and Liverpool is sure to suffer a long Good Friday. The North-West giants have one of the fiercest rivalries in football. Liverpool will be keen to postpone the seemingly inevitable crowning of Alex Ferguson's boys as champions for the third year in a row, as well as improving their own European prospects for next season. On a personal level, Liverpool's Michael Owen and United's Andy Cole (pictured) will be hoping to show Glenn Hoddle that they should be in England's squad for this summer's World Cup.
Sky Sports 1 Friday 10th 4.30pm

CREATURE FEATURE

CRYPTOZOOLOGY is not a study of animals who do crosswords. As a new 13-part series shows, it is concerned with the myths and mysteries surrounding the animal kingdom, with stories of monsters and beasts from around the world. From known predators such as the cheetah (pictured) and the killer crocodiles of Indonesia to rumoured creatures like the Beast of Bodmin, Animal X investigates stories every bit as puzzling as The X-Files.
Discovery Wednesday 8th 8.00pm





SEND IN THE CLONES

IF YOU can't get enough of Batman star Michael Keaton, then Multiplicity is definitely the film for you. He stars as Doug Kinney, a hard-working, devoted husband and father who finds there's just not enough of him to go round. After meeting a leading geneticist, though, he has a radical way of solving the problem. All he has to do is stop his wife, Laura (Andie MacDowell), from finding out. Sky Movies Screen 1 Friday 3rd 9.00pm

TOP OF THE CLASS

MOST teachers on TV are bad tempered, miserable old gits whose mission in life is to make their students' lives a living hell. Not so in real life – Disney Channel surveyed school kids from all over Britain and found that 87 per cent of them actually liked their teachers. Which should mean that there's no shortage of nominations for this year's Disney Channel Teacher of the Year Award. If you know a teacher who deserves an A plus, then why not nominate them? They should be someone who's had a positive impact on the life of the school, is an inspiration to others or simply a great teacher who helps students reach their full potential. Eight finalists chosen from the nominations will get £2000 for their school, which will also receive a visit from the Disney Channel Splat Attack crew. A short film about the school will be made. The overall winner, will receive another £8000 for their school, so it could be in your own best interests to put your teacher forward.

TO ENTER YOUR TEACHER, YOU CAN SEND LETTERS, POEMS, STORIES, PAINTINGS OR PHOTOS EXPLAINING WHY THEY'RE THE BEST TO:

Disney Channel Teacher of the Year Awards 1998, Freepost LON740 or email teacher@aspectgroup.co.uk or log on to Disney Channel's website at www.disneychannel.co.uk

Nominations can come from students, parents or teachers' colleagues, and must be in by Friday 15 May.

Girls' number-one choice, Baby Spice

Boys' favourite Alan Shearer

Fantasy teachers league

Which celebrity would you most like to be your teacher? Disney Channel asked nearly 1000 students in Britain and found that girls would most like to have Baby Spice in front of the blackboard, with pop hunk Peter Andre second, followed by David Beckham and TV presenter Zoë Ball. Alan Shearer was top scorer with the boys, followed by David Beckham, then Baby Spice and Louise.

Say halo to Mike

Playing a guardian angel is a role that's heaven-sent for 17-year-old actor Mike Damus. But for his Teen Angel character Marty DePolo, there's more to the job than just winging round the cosmos. In the show, Marty dies after eating a six-month-old burger and goes to Heaven, but he's sent back to Earth to become a guardian angel to his best friend. 'He's got all these cool powers which he hasn't mastered yet,' says Mike, who's studying history at the University of California. 'He's still got a lot to learn as an angel.' If you'd like to know more about Mike, visit the US Teen Angel internet site at www.abc.com/tgif/ where you can send him an on-line message, or check out the British site at www.disneychannel.co.uk.

Cardboard chaos

Feeling a bit flat? Spare a thought for the inhabitants of Flatworld, an animated cardboard city that is, well, very two dimensional. Flatworld is a short film that's won loads of awards at festivals around the world. It's the story of Matt Phlatt, who lives in Flatworld with his cat, Geoff, and his fish, Chips. While repairing a hole in the road, Matt stumbles across the entrance to Flipside – a weird cartoon world where everything is colourful and fat, instead of flat. But a dangerous bankrobber escapes into Flatworld – and chaos follows. Flatworld was made using lots of different animation techniques, so it has an unusual look to it. And it's a great story as well!

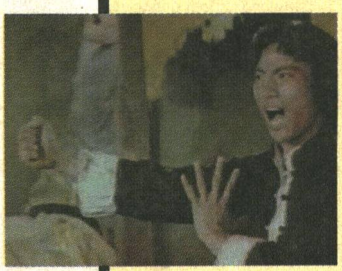
TURN UP THE VOLUME AND TUNE INTO THE MONTH'S BEST MUSIC ON CABLE

Back to the Eighties

THEY were years of excess when fashion crime was spinning out of control and world hair gel production reached an all-time high. But as well as leather trousers and eye make-up (and that was just on the men), the Eighties produced some cracking music. While a full-blown Eighties revival seems a little premature, VH1 is nevertheless giving the decade the recognition it so richly deserves with its Easter 80s Weekend. From Duran Duran and Culture Club to Spandau Ballet and Wham!, if it was a hit in the Eighties, VH1 says they'll be playing it. They're also promising live music from Blondie, The Smiths and UB40, plus a screening of the Clash's rockumentary Rude Boy. So dig out your tasselled loafers and roll up the sleeves on your suit – the Eighties are back, if only for a weekend.

VH1 from Saturday 11th 7.00am

Duran Duran



Kung who?

THE Fugees, Ash, Catatonia and Page Three Stunna Jo Guest are among those who have lent their voices to a new version of an obscure Seventies chop-socky action film, Eagle's Claws. The film was originally made in 1978 by martial arts director extraordinaire Tso Nan Lee, whose other works include Hot Cool and Vicious, A Woman A She-Wolf and, of course, The Invincible Kung Fu Legs. It wasn't exactly a box-office smash in Britain, but MTV has re-written the plot, re-dubbed it, and added a kicking music soundtrack with contributions from the likes of Blur, Chemical Brothers and Busta Rhymes. It all adds up to 90 minutes of bone-shattering martial arts action, lots of laughs and some great music. The lips might not be in synch, but it's bound to sound good anyway.

MTV, Saturday 11th 12midnight

The Chemical Brothers

Watch out for ... The 1998 VH1 Honors Show (Saturday 18th 8.00pm), from the Beacon Theater in New York, promises performances from the biggest names in the music world and all the behind-the-scenes gossip you can digest ... Trouble's Easter non-stop pop weekend features a behind-the-scenes look at the Smash Hits Tour, plus interviews with Peter Andre and Kylie Minogue (from Friday 10th 5.00pm)

Here's our pick of 20 of the hottest tracks on The Box this month. To make your request, dial the number on screen, then key in the code for the video of your choice

Test The Amazing 8½lb ORECK On FREE 15 Day Home Trial!

Oreck, the vacuum chosen by 50,000 hotels and 1 million homes in the USA since 1963.
So many commercial organisations insist on the lightweight Oreck XL to clean up in hotels, restaurants, conference halls and even sports arenas. Why? Because it's powerful, lightweight and incredibly durable.

Why is the Oreck so efficient?
Because pile-lifting roller brushes with 11,000 bristles spin at 6,500 rpm and deliver up to 70 million strokes a minute. This means when the Oreck sets to work on your carpet, it tackles the most stubbornly ingrained dirt and even adjusts automatically to bare floors.

Pollen, pet hairs, dust and dust mites
The Oreck's filtration system traps 99.4% of microscopic particles as small as 0.1 micron.

One of the lightest, most efficient full size vacuums available

Ingenious "top-fill" action
Conventional cleaners draw dirt through the bottom of the bag constantly churning up old dirt. But the Oreck uses its hollow handle to pump dirt into the top of the bag, gently laying it down upon the previous layer. Yesterdays dirt cannot seep out.

House cleaning will be easier – or your money back!
Being incredibly lightweight it is easier to lift, push, and to pull. In fact, the air-glide system practically pushes it for you. The handle is orthopaedically designed and can help those with painful joint disorders of the hand or wrist.

FREE worth £79 – the amazing hand-held super compact vac with the twin turbo motor. It weighs only 4lbs, yet has immense power. It's designed as a companion to the upright vac for all those awkward places such as upholstery, curtains, stairs, radiators and car interiors. It comes complete with 9 attachments.

Caribbean Light starts Thursday 9th 12.30pm

Caribbean Queen

If travel's to your taste, then tune into Carlton Food Network's new cookery show Caribbean Light. Each week Floella Benjamin takes a whistle-stop tour of the Caribbean, explaining traditional ingredients and discovering the secrets of the local cuisine. Then Anton Edelmann, head chef of the Savoy, takes over to conjure up a classic Caribbean dish with a European twist.

'Caribbean cuisine contains influences from around the world,' says Floella, who was born in Trinidad. 'But it can be heavy in consistency and unattractive to look at. In Caribbean Light the dishes become lighter and more visually appealing, as well as tasting delicious.'

Back in the UK, Floella and Anton scour shops and markets giving tips on how and when to buy the best ingredients – proving you don't have to jet off to Jamaica for a flavour of the Caribbean.

Simple Lemon Soufflé

(Serves 6)

Ingredients

4 eggs
2 lemons
5 tbsp caster sugar
Pinch salt

Method

1. Separate the eggs. Finely grate the zest of the lemons and squeeze out the juice.
2. Beat the egg yolks, lemon juice and zest with 2 tbsp of the caster sugar in a mixing bowl until it's light and creamy.
3. Whisk the egg whites with a small pinch of salt until it forms fluffy peaks.
4. Add 1 tbsp of sugar and keep whisking until it forms stiff peaks. Then whisk in the rest of the sugar.
5. Fold the meringue into the lemon mixture very lightly.
6. Pour the mixture into six ramekins that have been lightly greased and dusted with caster sugar. Bake in an oven preheated to 220C for four or five minutes, until they are well risen and golden.
7. Dredge with icing sugar and serve with a sprig of sweet cicely or mint.

APRIL BIRTHDAYS
5th Jane Asher • 8th Julian Lennon
18th Hayley Mills • 19th Dudley Moore

Taurus♥♥♥
21 April-21 May

VENUS BRINGS out your sensual side, but bear in mind that it also makes you emotionally vulnerable. Try to avoid hostile people and gravitate towards gentler types. Water signs will be your best companions this month.

Gemini♥♥
22 May-21 June

PROBLEMS THAT call for practical solutions can be tackled with complete condfidence. Mars makes you more self-composed this month, and many Geminis will commit to a long-term relationship or financial venture in April.

Cancer♥
22 June-23 July

YOUR HEART may be torn in two different directions, or you will wish you could take back something you said. But rather than trying to change the past, you must try to accept your fate and look to the future.

Leo♥♥
24 July-23 August

YOUR SURVIVAL instincts will be strong, allowing you to overcome an obstacle at work or face emotional adversity. Be brave enough to step outside your own little world this month, Leo, and explore new horizons.

Virgo♥♥
24 August-23 September

THERE MAY may be talk about money, or a power-play will occur between the sexes. Either way, you'll say more than should and wish you'd bitten your tongue. Try to be more gracious in your dealings with others.

Libra♥♥
24 September-23 October

SUN AND Saturn emphasise the people who are loyal in your life and expose the hangers-on. And because your sign tends to take others at face value, it is important to sort out good relationships from bad this month.

Scorpio♥
24 October-22 November

ALTHOUGH FEELINGS of frustration may surface at times, you would be wise to keep a lid on your anger. You may be like a loose cannon this month and unless you curb your tongue, there will be drama on the home front.

Sagittarius♥♥
23 November-22 December

ANY PRESSURES you experience this month are likely to be self-inflicted. Sun and Mars bring out your competitive streak, keeping you one step ahead of everyone else. Use this aggresive energy in a positive way.

Capricorn♥♥
23 December-20 January

ALTHOUGH IT may be quite out of character, you will have a tendency to jump feet first into situations. However, the cosmic message is to think before you act or ask someone you love for a second opinion.

Aquarius♥♥♥
21 January-19 February

WITH THE planetary energy working in your favour, you may have the chance to right a past wrong. And not only will communication with loved ones run smoothly, but your timing looks like being spot on.

Pisces♥♥
20 February-20 March

UNLESS YOU use some restraint, there is a danger you will squander all your energy or resources before the month's end. Your stars suggest a possible budget blow-out and a tendency to burn the candle at both ends, so take care.

Aries♥♥
21 March-20 April

WITH SUN in your sign, it's time for a fresh start. Some of you may, at last, get the green light on a project after months of delay. Others will finally say goobye to a relationship that is going nowhere.

THE MIRROR HAS TWO FACES

IT MAY have taken 60 years, but Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs finally receives its British TV premiere this month. When the film, Disney's first full-length animated feature, was first released in 1937, the scenes with the wicked Queen – who takes some drastic steps when she's told by her mirror that Snow White is the fairest of them all – were deemed so scary that youngsters were banned from seeing it. Now, though, the seven dwarfs won't be the only little 'uns involved in this classic tale. Disney Sunday 12th 6.00pm

BHOYS II MEN

AS THE Scottish Premier League reaches a gripping conclusion, Wim Jansen's maturing Celtic will be aiming to prove that they are capable of winning the championship. The Bhoys' ambitions will be severely tested at arch rivals Rangers when the two clash in a vital Old Firm derby. Walter Smith's Rangers are trying to win the title for a record tenth time in a row, but Celtic will be hoping that their mix of experienced foreign players and young, home-grown talent, such as Simon Donnelly (pictured), can rise to the occasion. The other side in the title race, Hearts, will be fascinated onlookers. Sky Sports 1 Sunday 12th 3.00pm

MURPHY'S STOUT

LARGER than life comedian Eddie Murphy is barely recognisable as 400lb professor Sherman Klump in The Nutty Professor. Some viewers may remember the Jerry Lewis film upon which this is based, but the remake has been well worth the, er, weight. Eddie plays six characters, including Klump's alter ego, Buddy Love, a svelte ladies' man who wants Sherman out of the way for good. Sky Movies Screen 2 Saturday 11th 8.05pm

TIME LIFE BOOKS

BURIED ALIVE OVER 3,000 YEARS AGO

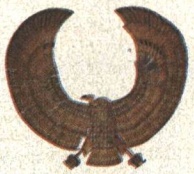
At key ceremonial times, Egypt's chief embalmer wore the mask of the jackal-god Anubis.

...but still he cries out. Look on as he is bound by hand and foot, wrapped in ritually unclean sheepskin, then buried alive in a plain coffin.

Step into Egypt: Land of the Pharaohs and you will encounter glory and depravity unlike any the world has seen before, or since. In this, the first volume of the Time-Life Books series LOST CIVILISATIONS, you experience Ancient Egypt as if you are there, today, right now.

Hear the voices of Nefertiti, Ramses and Tutankhamen and of the priests, generals, scribes and dwarfs who ran the kingdoms.

PONDER THE SECRETS OF THE PYRAMIDS.



This golden collar, showing the goddess Nekhbet as a vulture, covered the entire chest of Tutankhamen's mummy.

While experts can now answer many questions, some Ancient Egyptian mysteries are still yours to ponder...

- Was young Tutankhamen's death an accident or murder?
- Do the lost tomb and riches of Ramses VIII still await discovery?
- What valuable objects are yet to be revealed in tombs opened long ago?

Accept Egypt: Land of the Pharaohs now on a 10-day free trial, and immerse yourself in the glories of a great civilization. Experience the wonder of Egypt at the special introductory price of only £9.99! (plus £2.25 p&p) - a discount of over 40%!

If you accept this offer and order within 7 days you will also receive the 2 FREE gifts featured below. Just complete and post the coupon today!

JOURNEY TO MORE LOST WORLDS.

After Egypt, the LOST CIVILISATIONS series takes you to more dark and curious times. Witness horrific Aztec human sacrifices... see the proof of Inca brain surgery... and visit Pompeii in the shadow of the explosive Mount Vesuvius.

A LEAGUE OF THEIR OWN

THEY were the undisputed giants of rugby league in the Eighties and early Nineties, but Wigan Warriors have suffered a fall from grace in recent years. Bradford Bulls and southern upstarts London Broncos have usurped Simon Haughton (pictured) and his teammates. The man who oversaw Wigan's dominance, coach John Monie, has just returned, though, so the North-West side will be seeking a return to the glory days. They have an ideal opportunity to gauge their progress when they face the Broncos. Sky Sports 1 Sunday 26th 6.30pm – Live

THE GREAT ESCAPE

BRUCE WILLIS pointed out in Die Hard 2 that sometimes the same thing does happen to the same guy twice. Snake Plissken would have to agree. Having fled from the futuristic penal colony of Manhattan in Escape from New York, Snake (Kurt Russell, pictured with Pam Grier) faces a similar problem in Escape from LA. This time, he's got to retrieve a black box from Los Angeles on behalf of the President, and muggers are the least of his problems!
Sky Movies Screen 2 Saturday 25th 10.00pm

SCHOOL DAZE

ROBIN WILLIAMS is familiar with classrooms, having played the inspirational teacher in Dead Poets Society and a science teacher in Flubber, but he goes back to school in an entirely different guise for Jack. Williams stars as a young boy who suffers from a rare disease, which makes him age four times faster than other people – so although he's only ten, he looks 40. Despite a sheltered upbringing, he determines to seize the day and attend school, like the other kids his age, beginning the adventure of a lifetime. Sky Movies Screen 1 Sunday 26th 7.00pm

SWITCH ON SWITCH OFF

Help

Transcutaneous Electrical Nerve Stimulation (TeNS) control of pain relies on the "gate theory" first put forward in the 1950's by British neuroanatomist Patrick Wall and Canadian psycho physiologist Ronald Melzack. Following 10 years of research Wall and Melzack concluded that one type of nerve fibre carries the "hurt" or pain message to the brain, while a second thicker type of nerve fibre is capable of acting in a contradictory way by blocking out (or erecting a gate to) the "hurt" signal, thereby preventing its transmission to the brain.

Research studies show that TeNS produces an intense stimulation which activates an area of the brain which, in turn, inhibits the pathways that transmit pain signals. Although it is not a cure, TeNS is now accepted by the medical profession as being of significant benefit to many in controlling most kinds of physical pain, and is now employed with increasing success in NHS Hospitals and Clinics throughout the UK.

When pain cuts like a knife

For the countless millions suffering pain due to sports injuries, muscle strains, joint problems, period pains or other causes, the TeNS approach to pain management and control offers an ideal, non-invasive, drug free approach to living a normal life.

TeNS has a remarkably wide range of applications: Neck ● Spine ● Waist ● Shoulders ● Elbows ● Wrists ● Hips ● Knees ● Ankles ● Feet

While it is important to stress that TeNS is not suitable for everyone (specifically those who suffer heart disease or who have a pacemaker fitted) TeNS has proved beneficial in alleviating pain for the vast majority of users.

Shire Design are one of the largest manufacturers of TeNS units in Europe and are at the forefront of research and development. Shire TeNS have a range of competitively priced (£50 to £100), easy to use, discreet, compact home units to suit every pocket and situation. Shire TeNS units are supplied to and used by Hospitals and Clinics.

These are genuine extracts from letter received from Shire Design customers. The originals are available for inspection in their offices, along with many others.

"I annually award my own New Year honour to the best thing that has happened to me during the previous year and without a shadow of doubt I award this to your magnificent TeNS apparatus for the outstanding – not to say "UP-STANDING" – improvement it has made to my life."

N. Richards, Merseyside.

"Reference the Sigma machine I purchased from you some time ago, I am pleased to say it has given me so much pain relief that I am now able to walk about, and cover several miles."

R. Whitton, Northampton.

"It works, it really works. When it arrived, I took one look at it and thought, what a waste of time. After 3 days I tried it out and it has transformed my life."

L.J. Davidson, Worcester.

"I am writing to let you know how delighted I am with my Sigma TeNS it has brought me great relief and I do not have to take pain tablets any more I just use my TeNS."

J.W. Whalley, Lancs.

COMPETITIONS

VIDEO BONANZA!

From animated adventures in FernGully to the intrigue of The X-Files, we've got 30 great new videos to give away, courtesy of Twentieth Century Fox Home Entertainment. The hit series Millennium, with Lance Henriksen (left), continues to fascinate cable audiences and we have five copies of Volume 3 (containing the episodes The Judge and 5-2-2-6-6-6) and five copies of Volume 4 (containing Blood Relatives and The Well-Worn Lock) to give away. Both are available on video from 30 March.

We also have ten copies of FernGully – The Magical Rescue. This delightful animation is released exclusively on video on 30 March, and sees the forest gang having to call on a little girl named Budgie for help when poachers kidnap some baby animals.

Fans of The X-Files will be looking forward to the forthcoming movie, but in the meantime, we've got 10 copies of File 10 – Emily (now out on video) in which Scully meets a young girl who bears an uncanny resemblance to her sister, but the encounter leads to a chilling and deadly climax.

Keiko the orca whale: well done, Discovery

Critical condition
WHY oh why oh why does Sky One insist on interrupting series with old episodes? For example, the new series of ER was interrupted at Christmas, New Year and 19 and 26 February for old episodes. This makes the series very disjointed. The stories continue and you get a bit lost trying to remember what happened two weeks ago. Please, please, please stop this stupid practice. It also happened with the last series of The X-Files.

Joanne Barker, North Shields

I AM a 17-year-old who loves ER, but I was so angry when Sky One put an old episode on during the new series (19 February). After watching the new episodes, it ruins the programme because when the next new episode comes on, you can't remember what the last one was about.

Michael Timbers, Great Yarmouth

I AM a big fan of ER. What a disappointment on Thursday 19 February to see a repeat. I'm not saying episodes aren't worth watching twice, but why in the middle of a series?

Beth Stiff, Lincoln

● Sky replies: 'The US networks repeat regularly throughout a new series. Sky transmits ER at virtually the same time as the United States and, as we are unable to show new episodes before they are broadcast in America, we have no choice but to repeat occasionally.'

No laughing matter
WHO is responsible for the 'fill-in' slots before and after Frasier on the Paramount Comedy Channel? For crying out loud, comedy is supposed to be something that's funny. The Celine Dion lookalike, transvestites and the be-wigged medallion man are all nauseatingly feeble. To think good money has been spent on them ... How they have the nerve to put such dross so near to a gem like Frasier is beyond my comprehension. Give us a blank screen rather than these insults to our intelligence.

Shirley McLade, Bramley

Painted lady
COURTENEY COX'S appearances in Friends [Sky One] have made me regard her as one of the most attractive of women. What a pity that you should publish a picture of her (February 1998) grotesquely painted so that she looks like one of the Munsters! Why do otherwise beautiful women go to all that trouble to degrade their appearance?

Roger McCutcheon, Belfast

Important Discovery
I AM writing this letter in praise of the Discovery Channel. In my opinion, it is the best there is. It provides a great source of learning and reference which appeals to all ages. I especially appreciate the variety of programmes shown, which range from nature, science, history and technological innovation, to military and medical subjects. My favourite programme is Beyond 2000. The Discovery Channel is number one because it offers a first-class service.

H Carter, Stoke-on-Trent

Prince of whales
WHAT a wonderful programme on Keiko, the orca whale [Keiko's Story, Discovery Channel, 22 February]. I cried and laughed at the same time. Being a true story, it was wonderfully presented and the young lady who gave the commentary was great. Discovery Channel is a wonderful, fine channel. More please!

Mrs W Vincent, Southampton

Havana great time
I WOULD like to thank the makers of Discovery Channel's Lonely Planet for an excellent series and an awe-inspiring episode on Cuba [February]. Having visited the country myself last summer, the programme brought back many happy memories of both the Cuban people and their culture. My views of Cuba were somewhat limited, however, as I was on a package tour and therefore restricted as to where I could go. Lonely Planet introduced me to a brand new way of thinking about the country as I was given an insight into parts of Cuban life which I was unfortunate enough to miss out on. Not only was the host extremely witty and informative in his portrayal of the Cuban country, but the relationship which he struck up with the Cubans themselves made for a very entertaining production. Many thanks for opening up fond memories of a fantastic country – and introducing me to new ideas. It's given me the determination to return and witness it all for myself.

E Formosa, Catford

Aplomb and Jerry
WHAT a truly great professional chat show host is Mr Jerry Springer. Have we anybody here with his charismatic manner, great sense of humour and who gives the impression of giving the variety of people on his show the freedom to be themselves. Having said that, some of the situations the American people seem to get into are incredibly amazing, and despite Jerry's professional skill and control, one often feels sad for some of the poor people's apparently bizarre lifestyles. Anyway, great TV. One of the best shows around.

Bill Berry, Peterborough

The good Lord
I WAS very disappointed and surprised that there was no mention of Jack Lord in March's Cable Guide. Here is Granada showing Hawaii Five-0 twice, sometimes three times a day, and yet no mention of his death [on 21 January], his contribution to TV or any tribute to him at all. Yet we still have to see Elvis, Marilyn, etc, who passed away years ago. Surely this man – who was married to the same woman for practically 50 years, with no scandal, did so much for charity in Hawaii, and led a very good life – should have had a page dedicated to him in your publication.

EL Appleyard, Glasgow

Gone with the wind
I AM writing to complain about The Weather Channel ceasing broadcasting, as there was no previous acknowledgement of this happening. The first I knew of it was when I tried tuning in to the channel. I had been watching The Weather Channel nearly every night. It was a good service for finding out what the weather forecasts were over the next five days here and abroad. It was also useful for the roadwork details, cold and flu forecasts and I found the air quality forecasts very helpful, as I suffer from asthma. It will be very much missed.

Be hair now
I WATCHED Hercules on Sky One on 14 February. There were scenes with Hercules and Ares fighting, about three or four times. It became apparent that a stuntman was being used as his wig kept falling off. It would be more believable if Ares did his own stunts as me and my two girls were laughing at this poor stuntman's antics.

E Tolmie, Stockwell

● Congratulations! You win our £5 prize.

NEXT MONTH IN CABLE GUIDE!

Tony Head talks about his role in Buffy The Vampire Slayer, plus there's action aplenty with Geena Davis in the thriller The Long Kiss Goodnight.

Do your skirts ride up because they fit too tightly on the hips?
Do your blouse fastenings gape and look unsightly?
Are the sleeves and shoulder pads in your blouse too big?
Is fastening the waistband on skirts and trousers a real problem?

Do you suffer these fashion problems?

AT LAST THE ANSWER. A STUNNING NEW FASHION CATALOGUE.

WHY DON'T CLOTHES FIT PROPERLY?

With Britain's reputation for fashion design, you might be surprised to find that we're still designing fashion on standard dress sizes devised in the early 50s. The shape of women has drastically changed since then. For example, they now have rounder bodies, bigger and lower breasts, a larger waist and a more pronounced stomach. No wonder then, that for years this has caused problems when trying to find clothes that fit properly.

OUR SURVEY'S 50,000 MEASUREMENTS GIVE THE ANSWER

Now, thanks to our unique survey, which was updated in 1997, fashion and figure are back in harmony. No more waistbands that cut into you, or skirts that ride up. No more uncomfortable trousers or badly fitting shoulder pads. All our fashion has been designed with the new shape of women in mind. So, simply by ordering your usual size, you can get a consistently better fit in a choice of different lengths. And we're so confident of this that we're prepared to offer a full, no quibble money-back guarantee.

FASHION FOR THE NEW SHAPE OF WOMEN

When clothes fit badly the first thing you notice is the clothes. When they fit well you notice the woman. Now, with a more comfortable wardrobe of clothes, British women can start to be noticed for their elegance and style.

Because when clothes fit well they don't just make you feel great. You look great too. Women have waited over forty years for better fitting fashion. Now you can get it right away. Simply send for your free catalogue.
